GLOBALG.A.P. Risk Assessment on Social Practice (GRASP)

From 2020, certified aquaculture farms must have a 'Fully Compliant' or 'Improvements Needed' level GRASP assessment to demonstrate social responsibility. www.globalgap.org/grasp

Find a GLOBALG.A.P. Approved Certification Body (CB)

We provide a full list of all GLOBALG.A.P. approved CBs, including their contact information, at www.globalgap.org/cb-list

GLOBALG.A.P. Chain of Custody (CoC) Your Smart Key to Supply Chain Transparency

Essential for all producers, packers, buyers, and retailers handling and trading products originating from a GLOBALG.A.P. certified production process. www.globalgap.org/coc

Safe Feed - Safe Food Source Certified Aquafeed

Compound feed manufacturers who supply GLOBALG.A.P. certified producers must be certified against the GLOBALG.A.P. Compound Feed Manufacturing standard CFM. www.globalgap.org/cfm

THE GGN LABEL AND PORTAL FOR CERTIFIED AQUACULTURE*

Aquaculture products from GLOBALG.A.P. certified production processes can be labeled with the GGN label, which works with the GLOBALG.A.P. Number - GGN, a 13-digit number that identifies the source of the certified product. All aquaculture products with the GGN label are thus certified in accordance with the GLOBALG.A.P. Aquaculture standard, which is in line with the FAO Technical Guidelines on Aquaculture Certification and the OIE Aquatic Animal Health Code.

Using the GGN label printed on the product packaging, consumers can learn more about the farms that have produced the GLOBALG.A.P. certified products at www.ggn.org – the portal for certified aquaculture. The website also explains what good aquaculture practices are and how the certified farms implement them. This direct line between the consumer and the original producer forms the basis of a chain of trust in food production. Contact: info@ggn.org
